NORA TANK SEMINAR

An ounce of protection can go a long way. Taking a proactive approach to overall tank management - from installation to regular check-ups - will protect your customers. Many companies already do regular tank inspections and have procedures in place for proper installations. Getting your people NORA Tank Certified is one way to demonstrate your commitment to your customers, potential customers and, in many cases, your insurance company.

Unfortunately, many people in the Oilheat business view fuel oil storage tanks as the Achilles' heel of our industry. While these people have valid concerns, the fact is that properly installed and maintained storage tanks are incredibly safe.

By having your technicians, or anyone in your company who does tank inspections/installations, NORA Tank Certified, your company's name will go into the NORA Tank database. It will be visible to your customers, potential customers and to insurance companies.

All attendees will receive the Technician Service & Tank Inspection Procedures Guide.

PPMCSA and NAOHSM (National Association of Oil Heating Service Managers) are teaming up to bring you this extremely important seminar at an affordable price.
